Chamber Seeks $8 Ton Rate For Geneva Steel

In an effort to integrate the steel mill at Geneva, Utah, into the western industrial economy, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce sought an $8 per ton rate for Geneva steel moving to Oregon, Washington and California in a public hearing before the Pacific Freight Tariff Bureau in San Francisco yesterday.

General Manager Harold Wright said the chamber was joining forces with the Western States Council, composed of chambers of commerce of the 11 western states, and the U. S. Steel Corp., in seeking the $8 rate.

"West coast manufacturers must be assured of an adequate supply of steel to accomplish their postwar production plans," Wright said.

He explained the chamber and the Western States Council were instrumental in effecting sale of the former government steel plant to private operators.

"Rates for Geneva products must be adjusted to fit into the existing Pacific coast rate structure. The chamber and the council favor publication of the requested rate at the earliest possible date to allow west coast firms to make definite production plans," Wright said.

Chairman K. T. Norris, Los Angeles, of the council steel committee, and James F. Bone, industrial department manager, was to present testimony favoring the requested rate at the hearing.

VHA Determined To Get Action On Vet Housing

Determined to get action on a solution to the desperate plight of California's homeless veterans, the Veterans Housing Association of California this week served notice of its intention to seek the liquidation of all obstacles, "real or otherwise," to wholesale construction of multiple-unit, moderately priced dwellings to be rented to veterans on a rent scale they can afford to pay.

The association, comprising leaders of the major veterans organizations in California, recently was established as a non-profit corporation with membership open to veterans only and with the announced purpose of "getting the boys housed." Directors of the association are: President, Merl Horn, commander of the Los Angeles County Council American Legion; Secretary, Andrew C. Elder, commander of the Los Angeles County Council, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Paul Cray, State adjutant, Disabled American Veterans, and Frank Turner Hatrem, chairman Veterans Organizations Coordinating Council; Secretary-Treasurer, H. F. Dutton, chairman, Veterans Emergency Housing Committee of Alameda; William A. Arnold, State adjutant American Veterans of World War II (AMVETS); and Arthur H. Tryon, Executive Director Veterans Service Centers of the Los Angeles area.

The association's board announced this week that the program will place emphasis on rental construction because "it is inadvisable for the average veteran to build or purchase a home under present price conditions and, further, because statistics show that at least 75 percent of World War II veterans cannot and do not want to buy or build homes at present prices."

Speaking of "benefit" of the association, President Horn said yesterday, "We shall seek the modernization of all obsolete federal, state and local laws and regulations governing financing, zoning, and the flow of materials which may stand in the way of rental construction for veterans wherever it is required and in quantities needed. We do not recognize the validity of any objections or obstacles to this type of relief for our country's heroes. We have no quarrel with any responsible person, group or agency in the field of housing construction, public or private, but we except none of them from partial blame for the current critical situation. We simply state that the notable failure to accomplish anything to date is water over the dam; now we demand that all such responsible parties pull together—we want action—we want housing for the veterans, period."

CPA AUTHORIZES NEW BUILDING FOR GARDENA CHURCH

The Civil Production Administration last week authorized the construction of a school building and recreational hall at 925 Gardena Blvd. at a cost of $50,000. The structure will be used by the Gardena First Baptist Church whose present quarters were deemed dangerous by the CPA.

The congregation, it is reported, was faced with the problem of obtaining a new building or abandoning the present one.

Wilmington and San Pedro May Get Swim Pools

The Los Angeles board of education today had under consideration a program for increased recreational facilities for San Pedro and Wilmington, including swimming pools at junior and senior high schools.

Lack of recreation facilities long has been one of the principal sources of criticism of the Los Angeles school system in Torrance. The boys at the high school do not have a gym, track, baseball and other equipment is lacking, let alone a swimming pool, which the students of the Torrance schools voted as desirable some months ago. One is provided for on the Torrance Recreation Bond Issue ballot, Aug. 20.

In view of the fact that Los Angeles has been ignoring Torrance needs, the report to the Board of Education did not include mention of needs of this area, and that is one reason for the City Charter election of Aug. 20, which will provide for formation of the Torrance Unified school district.

The tangy, thirst-quenching flavor of Golden State Buttermilk "carries over" when you use it in cookery. It's a kitchen secret Grandma knew. Here's just one of the nearly endless list of good things you can make with it to appeal to tired appetites.

Golden Corn Bread

1 cup corn meal 2 tsp. baking powder
1 cup bread flour 1/4 cup buttermilk
1/2 cup sugar 3 tbsp. shortening
1/2 tsp. salt 1/2 cup milk
1/2 tsp. soda 2 eggs, well beaten

Mix together dry ingredients. Combine buttermilk, melted shortening and eggs, and add to dry ingredients. Beat just enough to blend. Fill a greased pan and bake 25 minutes at 425°F.
